Dear Member of the Class of 2024,

Congratulations on completing your first semester as a student at the University of Notre Dame! While you are already missed here on campus, we hope you enjoy a much-deserved break full of rest, rejuvenation, and celebration. During these first days of your time away from campus, we encourage you to explore and utilize three key resources that will prove helpful as you prepare to register for your Spring courses.

Visit the Registration Resources webpage!

Section Registration Guide

This guide outlines the first-year student registration calendar, Spring curriculum requirements, directions to efficiently navigate NOVO, and helpful partners and contacts.

Section Registration Planner

The Spring Registration Planner, known as PATH Planner, is now available for first-year students to access. This resource walks students through how to search for courses and build plans. The planner, which also shares with advisors, will help students begin to prepare their Spring schedule. All first-year students must complete that Planner by Friday, December 4th, 2020. Holds will be placed on the accounts of those students who fail to submit a Spring schedule course plan.

Course Support

Are you interested in improving your academic performance, while decreasing your stress and the amount of time you spend studying? The Guaranteed 4.0 Learning System, offered by the Program for Academic Excellence, shows you how to do just that. Winter Session Opportunity | Intro to Health Professionals

Interested in exploring the healthcare profession? The CUA’s one-credit FYS 10415 Intro to Health Professionals is intended to assist students in their decision-making process of whether or not to pursue a healthcare profession. The course will also help students prepare to be successful, both personally and academically, during their college years and beyond. As apart of this preparation, will also read and discuss two books related to health care!
